Navigating the culture and establishing boundaries with your child while speaking their language involves their motivations and interests.

Understanding your child's motivations and interests is essential for establishing effective communication and boundaries while navigating their culture.

Join forces with Patti Rendon, School Board Member, and Dr. Bill Kagey to learn how to communicate effectively, develop a healthy relationship, and set clear boundaries. Doing so can significantly impact your ability to build a strong, respectful, and loving bond with your child.
