'Clue' Presented By: RVHS Theatre

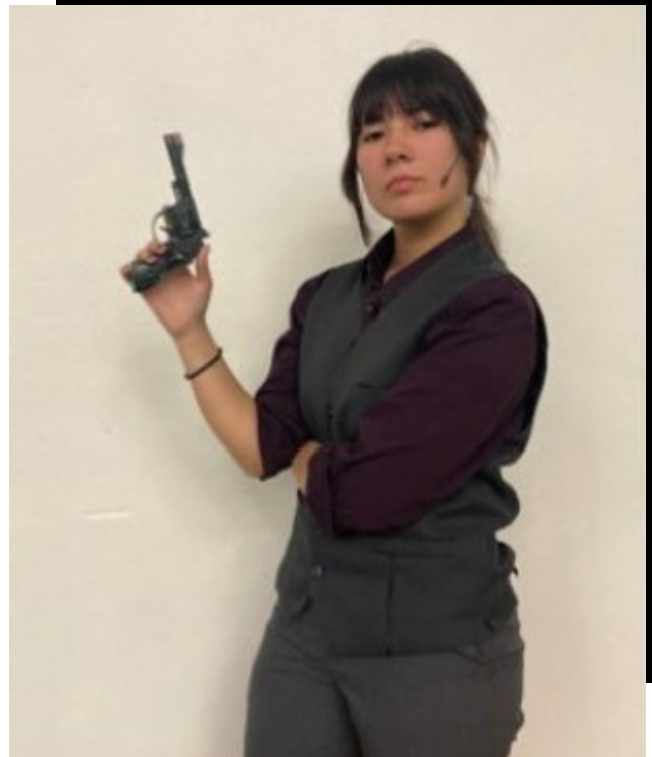

Katie Harbaugh as Mrs. White

In the play Katie Harbaugh played Mrs white who is described as an elegant yet kooky character, donned in black and white attire. Katie loves every aspect of portraying Mrs white with the exception of navigating the stage in heels. For Katie the most challenging part of preparing for the role was delving into the characterization aspect. Given the open interpretation of the character Katie had to embody the role while ensuring she remained entertaining and stood out on stage. When it came to preparation of the character Katie had to focus on Mrs whites posture defining how she stands and moves. Katie stated that when it comes to her future she wants to become an actress whether on stage or in movies showing her love for acting and creating interesting characters.

McKenzie Tolar as Professor Plum

In the play "Clue," McKenzie Tolar takes on the role of Professor Plum, a pretentious doctor known for his uncanny perceptiveness. According to McKenzie, her favorite aspects of the play are "the people I get to work with and the whole process of putting on a show." Working collaboratively with the cast, McKenzie navigates the challenges of portraying this peculiar character. The intricate storyline revolves around a group of individuals, including the enigmatic Professor Plum, caught in a mysterious and complicated plot involving murder and more. Despite the struggle with memorizing lines, McKenzie's dedication to preparation includes watching various productions of the play. The final scene holds a special place as a favorite, showcasing the rewarding experience of being part of this theatrical endeavor. Looking ahead, McKenzie expresses a preference for exploring technical aspects rather than extensively pursuing acting in the future.
