Kindergarten Readiness

- Children who enter Kindergarten “ready to read” are 3 times more likely to graduate on time than those who are “not ready.”
- A child’s first school experience can impact a child’s well-being, self-esteem, and motivation.
- The achievement gap present in 1st through 3rd grade can be detected before Kindergarten. By providing opportunities to develop school readiness early, educators can prevent the achievement gap from occurring and support long term success.

How can you help with “a change in expectations?”

- ▶ Assign your child specific, age-appropriate, tasks and hold him/her accountable for its completion. Create a job chart together and have the child check off completed tasks.
- ▶ Try to build your child’s stamina (time on task) with activities. Example: Look at books for 5 minutes and build up time from there.
- ▶ Practice having your child follow two and three step directions. Example: Fold the clothes and the put them in the dresser. OR.. Pick up your toys, put your clothes away and then meet me at the kitchen table.

How can you help with “a change in place?”

- ▶ Provide opportunities for your child to experience a variety of surroundings such as libraries, museums, church and parks etc.
- ▶ Allow your child to visit a friend’s home.
- ▶ Make arrangements for your child to visit the school he/she will attend for kindergarten.

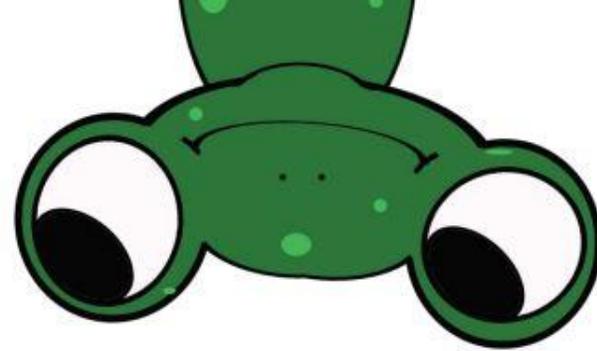

How can you help with “adjusting to the role as a student?”

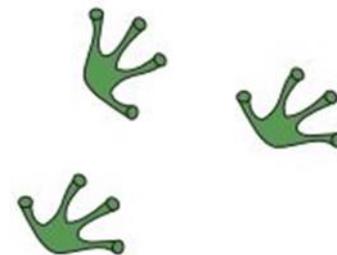

- ▶ Have your child explore books. Discuss the parts of a book (front, back, cover, title, author). Show your child that we read the text not the pictures and that we read from left to right.
- ▶ Have your child practice writing the letters.
 - ▶ (Be sure the child is holding the pencil properly.)
- ▶ Have the child practice writing his/her name and copying words from books.
 - ▶ If needed, start with practicing simple strokes (/ \ X O).
- ▶ Play rhyming games and “I Spy” games with letter sounds.
- ▶ Participate in group activities when possible.
- ▶ Have your child keep a journal and draw pictures to represent his/her day. Parent can add words if child wants to elaborate!
- ▶ Birth to Kindergarten Developmental Standards
