If everyone wants to live happy and successful lives, then why do so few achieve it? This simple question launched an exhaustive study into the commonalities of the world’s happiest and most successful people.

The authors of 7 Mindsets spent thousands of hours analyzing research and conducting their own research. So, what do the happiest and most successful people have in common? It turns out that it’s not related to geography, race, or gender. It’s not whether they grew up in loving homes or broken homes, nor whether families were affluent or impoverished. It even has nothing to do with their education level, nor with their specific skill sets. In fact, what they all actually have in common is their mindsets...how they think! The 7 Mindsets provide the foundation for lives filled with extraordinary meaning, fulfillment, and success on one’s own terms. Please join our Frost Family on February 10th as our school psychologist, Ms. Goessl, reviews the 7 Mindsets and provides free resources.
